

Colorado

Colorado has seen a steady increase in the percentage of children participating in an afterschool program—growing from 11 percent in 2004 to 13 percent in 2009 to 15 percent in 2014. However, Colorado’s afterschool participation rate still falls below the national average of 18 percent. Colorado has also made progress with having fewer children alone and unsupervised after school. Colorado’s percentage of unsupervised children dropped nearly 50 percent—from 31 percent in 2009 to 17 percent in 2014.
