

Illinois

The percentage of Illinois children participating in an afterschool program has steadily increased over the past decade, climbing from 10 percent in 2004 to 16 percent in 2009 to 18 percent in 2014. Illinois afterschool programs are also reaching more high-needs children, with the percentage of children participating in an afterschool program who qualify for the Federal Free or Reduced Price Lunch Program growing from 40 percent to 54 percent in 2014, nine percentage points above the national average. Parent satisfaction with their child's afterschool program also saw improvements from previous years. In 2014, 8 in 10 Illinois parents surveyed said that they are satisfied with their child's afterschool program, an increase from 74 percent of parents in 2009.
